Seek Strike Settlement As Miners Work Under Truce

Two-Week Coal Strike Truce Has Eased Tension

Many Of Problems Of 40-Day Stoppage Of Coal Mining Unsolved However

WILL TAKE TIME TO PASS CRISIS

(By International News Service)

The two-week coal strike truce eased the tension in the nation's crippling industries and commerce today, but many of the problems arising out of the 40-day stoppage still remained unsolved.

Mine operators accepted the two-week truce offer of John L. Lewis, president of the 400,000 striking AFL-United Mine Workers, and coal was expected to be brought out of the pits by next Monday.

The mine owners agreed to Lewis' truce after receiving government assurance on price relief to meet increased labor costs, and President Truman issued an ultimatum to operators and miners alike to report back to him with a contract in five days.

But mining operations over the two-week period were expected to net only 20 million tons of coal, and government officials warned most restrictions in fuel conservation would remain in effect.

Rigid restrictions still remained in railroad passenger and freight services, utilities and electric lighting. The dimouts in most cities, notably Chicago, hardest hit by the strike among the major cities, was continuing.

NO LOSS FROM TWO SMALL FIRES FRIDAY

City firemen answered two alarms Friday afternoon and evening, but no loss resulted from the two small fires, Chief James E. Thomas reports.

At 11:50 p. m. an alarm from Box 54 summoned them to the home of V. Lombardo, of 419 Ueber street, where the electric wiring had overheated.

At 2:50 p. m. they were called to the Roma Restaurant, 13 South Mercer street, where grease on the range in the kitchen caught fire.

PA NEW OBSERVES

First "Mother's Day" since the end of the war will be observed on Sunday. Many special programs have been arranged in the city and county, and in many homes there will be happy reunions.

Weather conditions failed to hamper baseball activities in the county last night. Spectators and players alike carried on regardless of the light rain which fell during the evening.

Rain of today will be welcomed by the gardeners and farmers as it will do much to counteract the effects of the long dry spell that has been recorded this spring.

Concrete blocks appear to be the leading building material that is in use in this area at present. Many structures are being erected from this building material.

Another class at New Castle High school is about to be graduated. It is evident. Members of the class are wearing the traditional class "dinks" with the school and class numerals. PA News notes.

Daily Weather Report

United States weather statistics for the 24-hour period ending at 9 a. m. today follow:

Statistics for the same date a year ago follow:
Maximum temperature, 51.
Minimum temperature, 32.

Hope Is Increased For Scheduling Of Early Peace Parley

PARIS, May 11.—(INS)—Big Four foreign minister agreement on disposition of Italy's African colonies buoyed hopes today that a general peace conference will be held before summer.

Informed circles acknowledged that summoning of such a gathering would be a tremendous victory for U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes. They gave more than a 50-50 chance for success.

Families Prepare To Honor Mother Sunday

You can wear your red or white carnation on Mothers' Day as a matter of choice, but the President of the United States, his Cabinet the congressmen, senators and federal employees are supposed to wear them, according to a unanimous resolution passed by Congress in 1912.

The custom of honoring mothers on one Sunday of May had been started five years earlier by Miss Anna M. Jarvis of Philadelphia. By 1911 "Mother's Day" was being observed in almost every state, and in Canada, Mexico, South America, Africa, China and Japan.

Now the custom is as much an accepted holiday as the Fourth of July, and the local florists are struggling with the flood of orders arriving having barely recovered from the Easter rush.

The town's restaurants are expected to be busy.

Rift Widens In U. N. Council

NEW YORK, May 11.—(INS)—The rift between Soviet Russia and the London-Washington governments widened further today when the United Nations Security Council that acceptance of new members be deferred until August.

Behind Trygve Lie by U. S. Delegate Edward R. Stettinius Jr. was a move to block Albania's admission to the United Nations.

Russia is backing Albania's entry. The United States and Great Britain take the view that Albania has failed to live up to her treaty obligations, and therefore should be denied membership.

While other issues were stewing in rather bad odor, Russia was reported to have been attempting a behind-the-scenes bit of strategy to get Albania into the United Nations.

The American view was that new memberships were so important as to warrant meetings of the Security Council for that specific purpose.

Big Demonstration By Republican Forces In Italy

ROME, May 11.—(INS)—Rome's Republican forces reacted sharply today to yesterday's monarchial demonstration, pulling out a quarter of a million of madly cheering workmen for Italy's biggest political demonstration since the war ended.

Waving cartoons lampooning King Victor Emmanuel and the new king, Humbert II, and shouting "down with the monarchy" and "death to the monarchy." The Republicans staged an orderly march along the Piazza Del Popolo, one of Rome's main thoroughfares.

At one point, the tumultuous throng overflowed into the Piazza Venezia and filled half of the Corso Umberto.

No disorders were reported.

BRITISH GIRLS ARE STOWAWAYS

MARCUS HOOK, Pa., May 11.—(INS)—Leave it to a sailor to track down a whiff of perfume.

Merchant seamen aboard the Tanker Coyote Hills noticed a mysterious sweet-smelling aroma a short time after they left Purfleete, England, bound for Marcus Hook.

One of the sailors traced the scent to an unused cabin. There sat two pretty English maids—Doris Smith, 22, and Marie Potomitis, 19—who had stowed away.

Tanker Captain Fred Masters put them to work in the galleys and painting deck until their arrival at Marcus Hook, where they were taken in custody by immigration authorities.

British Loan Measure Now Before House

Senate Votes 46-34 For Bill And Sends Issue On To House For Action

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(INS)—The house banking and currency committee today scheduled hearings on the senate-approved three billion 750 million dollars British loan proposal with the outcome shrouded in pre-election uncertainty.

Treasury Secretary Fred M. Vinson was slated to be the first government witness favorable to the loan to appear before the group as it begins hearings which are certain to be controversial and lengthy.

Four Teen-Agers Burn To Death In Auto Crash

ADRIAN, Mich., May 11.—(INS)—Four teen-agers were burned to death when a tire blowout caused their automobile to roll over several times and crash against a freight car near Adrian today.

Rescue crews estimated the number of dead between 25 and 28. An undetermined number of bodies were taken to Whiting field at Milton, Fla. Navy officials said the bombers generally carry crews of 12 to 14 men each.

L. C. Cook, Munson forester who witnessed the tragedy, said the crash occurred during a routine flight yesterday near Munson, about 70 miles northeast of Pensacola.

Industry Will Be Slow Feeling Effects Of Truce

PITTSBURGH, May 11.—(INS)—Industrial leaders today said that John L. Lewis' 12-day coal truce will mean no immediate relief for the nation's paralyzed industry or lifting of the freight embargo.

President James S. Egan of the Tri-State Industrial Association said it would be weeks, and perhaps months, before full production schedules are resumed.

He pointed out that firms with sufficient fuel and material for at least two weeks might survive until their supplies are replenished, but to the average concern, the return of the miners meant nothing.

Over 100,000 Idle

With more than 100,000 workers idle, not including railroad men, in western Pennsylvania, additional layoffs were scheduled for next week. Industrialists estimated the total unemployment might reach 150,000 by the first of the week.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation scheduled next week's production at eight per cent of capacity. A spokesman said.

Mother's Day Founder Is Reported Critically Ill

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—(INS)—The whole nation—with the possible exception of one person—prepared today for the annual observance of Mother's Day.

And that possible exception is Anna M. Jarvis, who founded Mother's Day more than 40 years ago. Miss Jarvis, 82, is so ill that physicians feel even the slightest bit of excitement might upset her.

She will spend the day quietly in a sanitarium near Philadelphia, where she lies totally blind and ill.

Started in 1905

Miss Jarvis started a tireless campaign for a day of tribute to Mothers after her own mother died on May 12, 1905.

Later, however, as Mother's Day mounted in popularity, she became disillusioned by what she termed "commercialism" of the occasion.

But today, persons close to Miss

SOME CHANGES ARE PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(INS)—A drive got under way in the House today to save 80,000 school-age youths from being drafted into the armed forces after May 15.

Under terms of a Senate resolution temporarily extending the draft to July 1, it would be possible for selective service to induct approximately this number of 18 and 19-year-olds who have been deferred until the end of their present high school and college terms.

The House failed to obtain unanimous approval.

National Tube Co. Rescinds Shutdown Order For Monday

Normal Operating Schedules Will Be Maintained, General Superintendent Mummia States

In a statement issued this morning, General Superintendent Paul Mummia of the National Tube Company plant at Ellwood City, rescinded the shutdown order which had been made Friday because of the seriousness of the coal situation.

Decision of the miners to return to work during a period of truce cancels the necessity for the Ellwood City plant to suspend operations.

The statement from Mr. Mummia follows:

"All normal working schedules will be in operation starting at 9 a. m. Monday. It is the desire of the management that all employees report for work in accordance with their normal working schedules as would have been in effect had the indefinite shutdown not been expected. Employees are requested to contact their supervisors if they are not certain as to their schedules."

A large number of employees of the National Tube plant had planned to take their paid vacations beginning next week. The announcement made today will largely cancel these arrangements.

Mediator Seeks To Speed End Of Long Coal Strike

McGrady Orders 'Morning, Noon And Night' Sessions To Get New Contract

BACK TO WORK TREK IS BEGUN (BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(INS)—Federal Mediator Edward F. McGrady proposed "morning, noon and night" sessions today as John L. Lewis bargained with soft coal operators for a strike-settling contract to meet President Truman's Wednesday deadline.

With 400,000 striking miners beginning a back-to-work trek in the nation's idle coal pits under a two-week strike truce, McGrady called the industry and union negotiators into conference at 10 a. m. in a determined effort to reach a 1946 coal-wage agreement within five days.

To Keep Them At It

The former assistant secretary of labor told reporters:

"I'm going to keep them at it morning, noon and night unless they throw me out of the meeting. There will be Sunday sessions too."

Lewis, who boycotted the last two previous negotiating sessions, showed up promptly this morning to join in the negotiating.

None of the principals would comment, however, on the outlook for attaining that objective.

The bituminous industry agreed to a resumption of work under the (Continued on Page Two)

Rocket Tests Please Army

LAS CRUCES, N. M., May 11.—(INS)—U. S. army officers were jubilant today over the superb manner in which American military personnel handled Germany's deadly V-2 rocket bomb in a spectacular test deep in the desert of New Mexico.

They fired the V-2 at a target 39 miles away and came within 340 yards of the bulls' eye.

Special numbers were given by the Harmony Four, male quartet; Eleanore Beverly and Betty Daugherty, soloists; Carl Gerold, vibraphone; the Vera Lian-ban dances; Jack Taylor, harmonica; numbers and comedy; and Chase Whitman, comedy dancer.

In addition, there were several reels of motion pictures with dancing in the ball room.

Petitioners to the June class of the Consistory were special guests.

MEDIATOR SEEKS TO SPEED END OF LONG COAL STRIKE

Lewis-ordered strike truce and the miners are expected to be in volume production Monday.

Not Settled Yet

McGrady submitted his "morning, noon and night" proposal a few minutes after today's negotiations began and the conferees decided that they would determine at the end of each session when they would meet again. McGrady explained that at the end of this afternoon's conference, they will decide whether to meet tonight and Sunday.

Both sides made it abundantly plain that the strike, and the issues which precipitated it on April 1, are not settled, but they agreed to try to write a new wage agreement before the truce expires May 25.

The president told Lewis and Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, that he would expect them to report back to him in five days with a contract. Mr. Truman said their differences were not big enough to block agreement.

Negotiations between the disputants were scheduled to resume today.

Operators said a decision will be made whether to continue the present government-directed talks, or revert back to the industry's own wage conference which collapsed on April 10 when Lewis bolted the deadlocked meeting.

Little Immediate Relief

Despite the unhealed strike truce, the government for the present kept in effect the slash in railroad traffic and other coal conservation measures and few, if any, fuel-starved industries made plans for immediate reopening.

The solid fuels administration was expected to take control of the twenty six million tons of coal which should be mined during the truce to provide for essential needs, such as power and gas plants, hospitals and railroads.

Congress also showed no signs of abandoning consideration of anti-strike legislation which was forced to the front by the crippling coal tie-up. The senate will continue debate on a labor bill Monday, seeking to provide for peaceful settlement of industrial disputes.

Important Vote Monday

The house agreed to vote Monday on emergency legislation extending the draft law until July 1 to preserve the president's power to seize the mines if he should be finally forced to take such action.

In a half-hour conference with Lewis and O'Neill, Mr. Truman asserted that there was "no sense" in the whole economic system of the nation being throttled by such differences as they outlined to him.

Lewis and O'Neill, old friends, walked across the street to Lafayette Park after their White House conference and continued their discussion on a park bench for twenty minutes.

The White House said the parties were "in agreement in principle" on the UMW's welfare fund demand, but still apart on how the fund should be raised and administered.

Retrospective Wages

As a condition for the truce, the UMW president demanded that the mine owners make any ultimate wage boosts retroactive for the two-week period.

The operators agreed after receiving assurances from President Truman and Reconversion Director John W. Snyder of corresponding retroactive price relief. All coal will be billed at present prices, with the addition later of any price increases granted by OPA to cover wage adjustments.

FAMILIES PREPARE TO HONOR MOTHER

pecting a rush day, also, with many families deciding that "Mom" needs a day out of the kitchen. Flowers aren't the only gifts which mothers will have tomorrow, either. All of the stores have been displaying articles of feminine appeal for weeks, and the eau de cologne and the gloves have been selling rapidly.

Probably the most popular item ever sold as a Mother's Day present is a quiet looking picture called "An Arrangement in Gray and Black"—better known, of course, as Whistler's Mother. Up until 1935 five million copies of this picture had already been sold, and the sales didn't stop there.

This year instead of the usual flowers or hankies, most mothers are hinting around for a pair of nylons or a pound of butter.

TWO-WEEK COAL STRIKE HAS EASED TENSION

used for non-essential lighting, and other coal conservation measures were retained.

There still was uncertainty whether the miners would answer their chief's back-to-work order and whether the diggers would walk out again after the two-week truce.

Relief To Be Slow

Government officials also warned that, even if the miners resume work next Monday, it will take from one to two weeks to transport the coal to the consumer, and fuel stockpiles were reported dangerously low in many parts of the coal-famished nation.

Another problem was how the railroads, still operating on reduced schedules and with 25,000 fewer box cars than two years ago, would be able to break the jam on non-essential freight which has piled up on platforms since the Office of Defense Transportation embargo.

One bright spot in the freight handling picture was the assertion by a spokesman for the Western Association of Railway Executives that railroads serving Chicago, the freight handler of the nation, have a much greater proportion of non-coal-using locomotives than the eastern and southern roads.

Factories and other industrial concerns faced technological problems in returning to normal operations but prepared to resume regular hours as soon as these difficulties were met.

Resumption of industrial operations was expected to increase employment throughout the nation within a week. The Civilian Production Administration estimated that more than a million workers were made idle by the strike.

flying north in close formation and passed overhead shortly before noon yesterday.

The forester declared he saw only one body, that of a flyer whose parachute apparently failed to open. He added that the rescue workers told him the count of the number of men trapped in the wreckage was difficult because of the condition of the bodies, many of which were burned beyond recognition.

Navy officials said that the identities of the victims would be announced after the next of kin had been notified.

BRITISH LOAN MEASURE NOW BEFORE HOUSE

the plan at this time, as did several other influential Republican members of the house group.

The senate brought to a conclusion its months-long consideration of a loan by voting its approval 46 to 34. The situation of the British loan in the house is made uncertain by the approaching national elections in November. Many members of congress—of both political parties—have expressed the view privately that the plan to advance a "line of credit" to Great Britain is "unpopular" with their constituents.

HOUSE WILL TAKE UP DRAFT MONDAY

mous consent to consider the Senate-passed extension Friday, but agreed to take up the matter when it reconvenes Monday.

Rep. Sheridan (D., Pa.), who objected to consideration yesterday, announced that he would propose an amendment to the resolution banning the drafting of teen-agers between May 15—the draft's present expiration date—and July 1.

Sheridan stated also that he would move to amend the resolution to suspend the drafting of any persons between May 15 and October 15, a provision contained in the House-approved law which extends the draft until next February 15.

His third amendment would bar the drafting of all fathers—regardless of age—for the duration of the act.

Parliamentary Maneuver

Meanwhile, a member of the House Military Affairs committee disclosed that he was considering a parliamentary maneuver which would virtually force the Senate to vote finally on a permanent extension of the draft law before midnight next Wednesday.

Rep. Dewey Short (R., M.), revealed that he is considering a motion to substitute the House-passed draft extension bill for the Senate-approved resolution.

This would force an almost immediate appointment of Senate and House conferees to reconcile differences between the two versions of the extension legislation, bring their results back to the House for an approving vote, and then send the product to the Senate.

All this parliamentary action would have to take place before next Wednesday at midnight, or the draft law will expire automatically at that time.

Time Limit For Occupation Of Japan Uncertain

General Eisenhower Declines To Hazard Guess On How Long
Yanks Will Stay

TOKYO, May 11.—(INS)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower today declined to hazard a guess on the length of American occupation of Japan.

The chief of staff said that General MacArthur was better qualified to answer that question which was put to Eisenhower during a news conference in Tokyo.

Eisenhower commented that the end of American occupation of Germany was not yet signed. Concerning American forces in China, he declared they are being reduced to technical advisory missions as quickly as possible.

During his tour of the Pacific, Eisenhower found that GIs have no quarrel with occupation concepts but do not want to serve more than their share.

He again emphatically stated "we must make the United Nations organization work because we are unable to stand another war."

Eisenhower said that "man's intelligence must be brought up to at least to the level of his ability to destroy life."

Rosy Estimates

In calculations as to how much money there is in the hands of the American people for spending purposes and how many goods are now being produced, certain realistic facts are not always taken into consideration.

For example, when the savings of the American people are calculated, it must be remembered that the estimated billions of dollars for spending will not all go into electric refrigerators, automobiles and so on. A considerable part of this money is in the hands of insurance companies, and other corporations while a large part of that which is individually held will not be thrown on the market when sufficient goods are available. This will be especially true if retail prices rise high enough to encourage a buying strike. It is usually the thrifty folks who save the most money and they are not always the ones who are prone to let loose of it when the first temptation comes along.

It is to be remembered that when finished articles, which the people want, come off the production line the prices will be considerably higher than in 1939 and that a dollar will not buy nearly so much as it did eight or ten years ago.

Not so long ago Reconversion Director John W. Snyder issued an optimistic report that the nation is now producing goods at the rate of $150,000,000,000 a year. This sounds big, but even if the figures are not too optimistic it must be remembered that they are not 1939 figures, and $150,000,000,000 now amount to about 100 billion dollars of 1939 vintage, or even less.

Even the estimates of the inflation of 1946 over 1939 are not accurate. They are based to a large extent on ceiling prices. Yet there are many products now in the black market where they command prices which are much above the ceiling. Even in legitimate markets some commodities are unobtainable at ceiling prices. And poorer quality must be taken into consideration.

In estimating volume of business and savings now, inflation and above-ceiling prices are two things to be taken into consideration.

There is no need for pessimism but exaggerated optimism is not desirable.

Cupid Helps

Winston Churchill's prophecy of a closer alignment of the British and American peoples is coming true in a way that he, perhaps, failed to realize.

British war brides by the thousands are entering this country, the vast majority of them, highly pleased with matters as they find them. These women, British to the core, are becoming home-makers in a land new, and still quite strange, to them and eventually will become the mothers of Americans in a ratio which the census bureau can figure down to almost accurate percentages.

Now we learn that Chairman Richard B. Russell, of the Senate Immigration committee, has introduced a bill in Congress to permit British sweethearts of returning servicemen to come here on three-month visas.

Mr. Russell explains that the visas would be in the interest of romance. He has a flood of requests from veterans for permission to bring their fiancées to America and, we presume, a growing number from the girls abroad who want the chance to finally nail their man.

There may be opposition by some girls in America, but the issue, notwithstanding, must be judged in the larger interest. The bill can help achieve that Churchillian prophecy, which many see as the most enormous political pact on the world's horizon, by lining up Cupid with the hard realities of international loans and British-American diplomacy in a program of fulfillment.

Builders Vs Mechanics

Prof. Harold N. Chamberlain of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute is beginning to wonder who is going to do the work on all the new homes that countless families want to build or the repairs that patient householders have been waiting so long to get done. He contacts veterans seeking educational and vocational advancement. Only 7 per cent of those applying for training in the skilled trades were interested in the building trades.

Nearly all the veterans seeking training want to be radio mechanics, refrigerator and air conditioning mechanics and the like. They have a yen to be known as "technicians." They spurn opportunities to be skilled carpenters, masons, painters or plumbers. Building trades unions are worried about the situation, too. "We are told that in some building trades union," says Professor Chamberlain, "the average age of the members is 30 years, and that unless some younger men get in, there soon will not be enough left to train apprentices."

Perhaps some of the former GIs regard these jobs as too plebeian. However, the 7 per cent that signed up for building trades, who are practical enough to see the immediate placement that awaits them and the good pay that goes with it, may fare better than some others who are bent on entering the so-called "new industries."

They Searched An Ocean

One of the Navy's biggest jobs since the war ended—the search for its missing men—has been finished after months of painstaking work and millions of miles of travel by air, land and sea.

The size of the operation can be imagined from the laconic report of Adm. John H. Towers, Pacific commander in chief, that searches of all land masses, islands and atolls in the Pacific area, first by plane and then by shore parties, have been completed.

The total of the Navy's missing stands at 1,666, of which 1,478 are Navy personnel, 165 are Marines and 83 are Coast Guardsmen. It may seem high, but in view of the thousands and thousands of Navy men who operated in the Pacific and the tremendous distances involved, it represents an outstanding record.

Families and friends of the missing men may be sure that the Navy left nothing to chance in its effort to find them or account for them. It is the Navy's refusal to lose a man if he can possibly be saved that is one of the reasons for its high morale.

It is customary for the song writers and movie producers to poke fun at the gay nineties. When you remember that the folks then had plenty of beefsteak, butter, white shirts and houses, it would seem that the laugh is on us.

Prices are certainly loosening up. We understand the OPA will raise the ceiling on the $64 radio quiz question to $66.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

A reader, who is apparently very unhappy because of it, asks me to define jealousy.

"I have had two husbands," she writes, "who were so jealous that I wasn't allowed out of their sight. My first marriage was a mistake, and I left him and married again."

"My second marriage is also a mistake, in many ways, but the worst part of it is my husband's terrible jealousy."

"When I miss my bus and am a few minutes late he wants to know where I have been, whom I saw, what I did. I feel like a convict."

"Is there anything I can do to cure my husband of his jealousy? I can't bear it very much longer."

I am afraid that jealousy is an incurable disease.

I can't imagine anyone who is deeply in love being jealous of the person he loves.

Love is an undefinable something that makes life beautiful, while jealousy is mean and ugly and petty and weak.

If I were jealous of my wife I would be insulting her.

"There is more self-love than love in jealousy," said La Rochefoucauld, a very wise Frenchman.

Jealousy is a sign of weakness. The strong person has enough confidence in himself to know that he can hold the object of his love.

The weakling sees his better in every man of whom he is jealous.

There can be no happiness, no peace, no contentment where there is jealousy.

But more agonizing even than jealousy is the jealous woman.

"Plain women are always jealous of their husbands," said Oscar Wilde, "beautiful women never are."

The jealous man and the jealous woman, by their very jealousy, betray their waning powers.

Jealousy is decay. It rots the mind and is a cancer of the heart.

There is only one thing I can suggest to a man whose wife is jealous. The next time your husband asks you a lot of insulting questions, tell him to mind his own business.

Tell him that if he doesn't trust you he has no business to stay married to you.

Put your foot down and scare the daylight out of him.

And—don't give him any reason to be jealous.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

IS YOUR CHILD A CRY-BABY?

What can be more annoying to the mother or the child himself than constant whimpering and crying by this child?

Writes a mother of a child of six, the only child:

"She is a terrible cry-baby. I tried spanking her to give her a reason for tears but it proved in vain. Finally, in desperation, one day at the beach when she cried just for the fun of it, I put diapers on her and fed her with a spoon and let her sit on the floor like a year-old baby."

Children Laughed

"Of course all the children laughed at her and the shame was just too much for her. I thought it had cured her. For two months she was not a bit of a cry-baby but I did it again and embarrassed her. However, the past two weeks she has nearly driven me frantic."

Enclosing my bulletins, "The Nervous Child" and "The Nervous Mother," I replied: "This crying habit may have begun when the child was very weak or not well. A careful check now by a physician may be wise. But even though some physical disorder be found and corrected, the crying habit might continue."

Annoy You

Obviously she has discovered she can greatly annoy you parents by her crying, which fact may give her general satisfaction or win her favors otherwise denied. I need not tell you how unfortunate was the humiliation you subjected her to at the beach. I am sure you will not do anything so bad again.

Of course you thought you were doing the best. Naturally you have often called her a cry-baby, shamed her, and told her how bad her crying made you feel.

A great many of children far beyond the age of six prove embarrassing to themselves and their parents, and become the butt of ridicule of their playmates, by crying over small things; and they are forever humiliated with, "Don't be such a cry-baby." If the case is a boy it becomes particularly serious.

We wish to help such a child? Then we shall work first on ourselves. We shall not allow ourselves to be affected at all by the weeping. And we shall say nothing to the child at the time, not charge him with being a baby, not shame or ridicule him in any way.

We shall wait until some favorable moment when alone with him, and when our relationship with him is one of affection and comradeship. Then we shall quietly suggest to this child that he might wish to work for self-control under trying situation, so he might be happier.

We shall lose no opportunity to praise him for the slightest evidence of success.

All the while we shall do our utmost to help him find more enjoyments with other children of his age, more ways of gaining self-regard, more opportunities to win achievements. Most of all we shall try to make him feel he is really loved.

I have a new bulletin "Your Child and His Playmates" to be had in a stamped addressed envelope by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y.

The all-important question is not what law Congress should make, but whether it shall forever hereafter make laws to please organized groups.

Hoover May Straighten Out Great Food Muddle

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The administration plans a supreme effort to enact legislation for control of atomic energy at this session of Congress.

There have been long hearings and much discussion by congressional committees, but the special Senate atomic energy committee headed by Senator Bryan McMahon (D., Conn.) has completed legislation to keep atomic control in the hands of civilians.

It is the plan to press for Senate passage of the McMahon bill first, then seek action in the House. A major obstacle to House action is the May Johnson bill which was approved by the House military affairs committee last October.

Outlook for passage of atomic control legislation is not very hopeful at the moment. It may be brighter if the country gets a good scare in the Navy tests beginning at Bikini atoll in the Pacific in July. A large group of congressmen plans to go out to see the tests—and they may come back with the notion that legislation is needed quickly.

FOR this miserable condition there are two reasons, both of which seem almost inherent defects in our system. One is the Administration lack of a complete, cohesive comprehensive plan. The other is the absence of a single directive head with full power to co-ordinate, execute and enforce. In some conspicuous instances the absence of these things slowed us down during the war. That they should cripple us after the war is an illustration of how seldom we profit by experience, how stupidly we contrive to repeat and continue our proven mistakes.

RATIONING during the recent war never was on an intelligent basis. We deliberately refused to accept the formula that worked in World War I. The man who knew most about the production, distribution and control of food—Mr. Hoover—was calculatedly ignored. Mr. Chester Davis, who was the best food man brought to Washington by Mr. Roosevelt, resigned because he could not get what he had been promised—a free hand and real authority. The whole business was botched and bungled; there was vast waste of time, effort and money.

THE same things can be said truthfully of our postwar food-control attempt. Ex-Gov. Herbert Lehman, who until recently was chief of the UNRRA, is a high-minded man, honest and unselfish. But the organization he created was terribly incompetent. Its personnel was poor. Many of those whom it sent abroad knew little about what they were supposed to do and still less about how to do it. Mr. LaGuardia is a more energetic and forceful administrator, but he inherited a machine instead of constructing it and he has not got by any means the final voice in the matter of policy.

IT IS true that President Truman fired the personal vindictiveness of his predecessor, two months ago called Mr. Hoover to act as honorary chairman of his famine emergency committee and sent him abroad to make a survey. But the overall policy has yet to be formulated. We have yet to make a plan. For example, the great question is yet to be decided as to whether without the resources to feed all the starving people in all the world, we shall make the attempt to send food to India and China as well as to Europe, or whether we shall confine our food exports to the hungry peoples of nations whose economic and political rehabilitation is most important to us. In brief, is our policy going to be one of covering all the food-needy world inadequately or covering part of it adequately? This, along with one or two other basic questions which have not yet been fully faced. They must, in the end, be decided by Mr. Truman himself, who without first-hand information has got to act upon the best second-hand information available.

THAT is why Mr. Hoover's return report is so important. For unquestionably, he is today—as he has been for many years—the outstanding authority in the world on this subject, with infinitely the largest experience and a record for practical relief of the starving dating back to the Boxer Rebellion in 1900 when he and Mr. Hoover lived in China. Our hope of competently measuring up to the unprecedented relief needs of 1946 with a real plan lies first, in the character of Mr. Hoover's recommendations, second, in the speed, vigor and determination with which they are adopted. It would be inexpressibly shameful and shocking if petty political prejudices and unreasoning personal dislikes should interfere this time as they so often have in the past.

Atomic Control Legislation Being Pressed

Administration Puts Forth Supreme Effort

OPA Will Be Continued With Curtailments

(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The administration plans a supreme effort to enact legislation for control of atomic energy at this session of Congress.

From Me To You

By MESEALL

In case you didn't like the idea of putting the garbage collection into private hands... and the collection of ashes, tin cans and rubbish onto the city shoulders... maybe you would like to have the outfit that gather the trash use one central dump... and then do something yourself in seeing that no one unless in the rubbish business hauls such items and dumps them at the most convenient place.

In order to make collection and saving of old papers, tin cans and the like more appealing... maybe there should be arranged some means of reimbursing those who haul such items in addition to the charge they already make. Or maybe if conservation of such items was really worked through... from you to industry a worthwhile business could be made up that those who haul away tin cans and paper would do it for nothing just in order to sell the items.

Confused... well perhaps... but we people all over the United States should become more conservation conscious. We don't mean that you should join a sportsman association or club... in order to stock rivers and fields with fish and game... true that is a part of conservation... but there is a bigger part that we fall sometimes to realize. That is conservation of our forests, coal mines, oil wells and our mines. At the rate that we are going now... or at the rate we traveled the past four years it won't be long until we will have used up all available source of timber.

By reclaiming old paper, by reclaiming tin cans... there should be a great savings. We don't want another war... but if we were to finance another war it would spell finish to us. Germany used up old tin cans, old paper, etc... you never or you will not see now... rubbish piles of tin cans that the German people piled up... true you will find piles of tin cans that the American soldier left behind... We should profit by the experience of others before it's too late.

In helping this situation... special arrangements in collection of such items would do very fine in helping us to keep our city a beauty spot... see it's not too confusing.

Thaddeus Students In Spring Festival

Parents And Students Witness Clever Dramatization On School Playgrounds Friday

An air of festivity permeated the atmosphere at Thaddeus Stevens grade school on the East Side, Friday afternoon, when a May festival titled, "Going to the Fair" was presented on the school playground, in the presence of the parents of the students, by the boys and girls and faculty of the school.

Many of the school time rhymes "jumped" from the pages of the school books and became animated to participate in the program, much to the delight of the parents and students, who witnessed the presentation.

Cleverest of the dramatizations during the afternoon festivities were the impersonation of old "Simple Simon" the pieman, aptly portrayed by Albert Cleta, Wendling in and out of the audience with his "wares," he made a big hit. The old gray mare, came to life with two young men, Walter Kerr and Merle Reed, receiving much acclaim.

Children from the school going to the fair were: Marlene Palus, Janice McAllen, Barbara Barker, Joan Pauline, Gene Adamczyk, DeWayne Conner, Richard Phillips and Bradley Glass.

Virginia reel dance was participated in by: Patty Hetzel, Marion Rose, Sylvia Bailey, Herbert McClelland, Patty Trumble, Marcel Ambrozewicz, Donna Maciarello, Wayne Hare, Jane Reynolds, Dick Mitchell, Beverly Pittaway, Rocco Vitale, Shirley Thomas, William Pannella, Loretta Yaro and Richard Palmer.

Betty Kleonic was the pianist for the balloon dances, which were given by Joan Gray, Sandra Ross, Nancy DiCaprio, Valerie Lawson, Santina Canfora, Marguerite Micco and Donna Gabriel.

The ballet dance was presented by Veronica Picarro.

The old lady was Norman DeGennaro, umbrella man, Richard Anzalone, trumpet players, Rocco Vitale, Shirley Thomas, William Pannella, Loretta Yaro and Richard Palmer.

Two Held After District Attorney Is Fired Upon

New Development Follows Shooting Of Sailor In Connecticut Some Months Ago

NICHOLS, Conn., May 11.—(INS)—Two men who had demanded the state act in the slaying of their brother were held today on charges of carrying concealed weapons after Fairfield County State Attorney Lorin W. Willis was fired on.

Rudolph Kovacs, 30, was arrested while driving near his South Norwalk home. Later John Kovacs, 20, was taken in custody at home by state troopers. They were lodged in Norwalk jail.

The two, with other members of their family, had besieged Willis and other state officials with requests for action in the fatal shooting of Albert Kovacs, 18-year-old submarine sailor.

A statement issued at the office of Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin in Hartford said:

Shot Goes Through Window
"Mr. Willis was sitting at his home with Mrs. Willis when a shot was fired and a bullet crashed through the window. It barely missed Mr. Willis and lodged in the wall."

Willis was the prosecutor who brought about the dismissal of a manslaughter charge against Mrs. Imogene D. Stevens last fall in the death of young Kovacs. He testified there was insufficient evidence.

Mrs. Stevens said that Albert tried to strike her after she had ordered him from the home of her next door neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milton, and she shot him.

The Kovacs were also charged with operating an unregistered automobile and improper use of registration plates.

BAILEY BROS., THAT GRAND OLD CIRCUS, COMING MONDAY

The elephants are coming, and the lions and the tigers and the clowns and the pretty girl daring aerialists, and the calliope.

Yes, you've guessed it. The circus is coming. Bailey Brothers, that Grand Old Circus, largest of its kind in the world, giving afternoon and night performances at 3 p. m. and 8 p. m. at Butler Avenue Show Grounds, Monday, May 13th.

More than 250 men and women are stars and other performers from all parts of the globe. Headed by the one and only Dolly Jacobs, the greatest woman animal trainer, who works one of the largest animal acts in her career. This small, but brave woman takes her life in her hands twice daily to give the circus audiences one of the greatest thrills that come only once in a lifetime, and can be seen only with that Grand Old Circus, Bailey Brothers.

Besides Miss Jacobs there are too many acts to list them all, but among some of the great acts to be seen are Capt. Corry Lee, with his football-playing elephants, the Henderson Trio, the Four Millers, Walter Powell, the King of the Wire Acts; Sylvia Forrest, Queen of the Web; the Six Garsons, a sextet of beautiful girls presenting acrobatic displays and high perch exhibition; three herds of elephants, menagerie, and a small army of clowns.

As a prelude to the circus performance, a gorgeously costumed and enchanting spectacle marks the opening of that Grand Old Circus, with scores of people and animals taking part.

Performances will be given at 3:00 and 8:00 p. m., with the gates being open one hour earlier, which will allow leisurely inspection of the Bailey Brothers Menagerie and Horse Fair.

Chickens on Pennsylvania farms on January 1, 1946 totaled 25,626,000 compared with 23,216,000 a year earlier.

Notes From My Record of Public Service

Recently, fifty WISE MEN, most of them POLITICAL OFFICE HOLDERS from Beaver, Butler and Lawrence Counties met in New Castle and decided that YOU PARENTS AND FRIENDS OF BOYS WHO HAVE GIVEN THEIR LIVES ON FOREIGN SHORES IN WORLD WAR I AND YOU VETERANS, who are home, many crippled for life to end DICTATORS, ask you to vote again for the present Congressman—Graham from Beaver, who is now serving his fourth term. NEE SEB?

ALL I ASK OF YOU VETERANS & FRIENDS IS TO CONSIDER MY RECORD. # Eyes Of Turfdom On Assault In Preakness Today

Derby Winner Faces 10 Other Starters Today

Jockey Warren Mehrtens Confident Assault Will Come Through In Rich Stakes

RICHEST PURSE IN RACE HISTORY

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)
PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Baltimore, Md., May 11.—The 56th running of the Preakness stakes this afternoon for the richest purse in turf history brought out 11 three-year-olds and 45,000 spectators with most eyes glued on one horse and one boy.

This would be Assault, from the wide open spaces of Texas, and Jockey Warren Mehrtens from a land devoid of race horses and known as Brooklyn.

Has Confidence
They banged their way down to the front by eight lengths in last Saturday's $100,000 Kentucky Derby and will be in there as a team whipping again in today's sunset for a payday of similar proportions.

Know Each Other
Mehrtens said today that he has absolute confidence in his mount. He manages Assault with fine precision and has come to love the scamping son of Bold Venture. He likes to talk about the Derby, which he describes in one succinct sentence:

"We flew by 'em."
Eleven Good Horses
He indicated that he planned a similar prescription today against the Preakness field of 11, including seven beaten Derby candidates—Hampton, second choice in the Preakness; waging Lord Roswell and Knockdown, Maine Chance entry rated third choice, Marine Victory, Almond and Wee Admiral. All Mehrtens knows or wants to know is that they will all be in there at level weights of 126 pounds; they will be hustling for a payday in excess of $100,000 and he plans to hit that wire first a couple of minutes after 4:55 p. m. (EST).

Red Sox Defeat Yankees 5 To 4

NEW YORK, May 11.—(INS)—The rabid and gallivanting Boston Red Sox, imbued with conquest and sublime in their faith today gathered themselves to resume a wild, exuberant gallop up the royal road to posterity.

That remote and evasive state was only four short lengths ahead of the rollicking Sox this morning, while they made ready to hurl themselves with characteristic violence upon the stunned and deflated Yankees in the second game of baseball's hottest series. The vital first game fell before the seemingly irresistible rush of the Sox yesterday by 5-4 and it went a winning streak of 15 consecutive games.

You Can't Tell A Car By The Paint Job On It

Neither can you know how many miles it will run by the name on the hub cap. The product of the finest automobile manufacturer in the world is just so much junk if you don't take care of it.

It isn't the year, the model, or the color that gives you long mileage. It's the care, m'friend, it's the care you take to see that your car is kept properly oiled and greased, that worn parts are replaced and that your car gets a chance to live right.

Up to this point we haven't mentioned the answer. Simple of course, bring your car over and let our expert mechanics give it a new lease on life.

Bowling Congress In Final Stages

BUFFALO, May 11.—(INS)—The 43rd Annual American Bowling Congress championships continued through its stretch run today once again mired down by lack of competitive scores.

The current classic, which has only four sessions of its original 62-day schedule remaining, presented another heavy slate yesterday which failed to produce a change among the leaders.

Two threats were posted in the final with Mike Kommich and Louis Oles of Detroit pacing the field in the doubles with 1290-14 pins shy of the high 10 standings board, and Mike Rushank of Hazelwood, Pa., besting the single with 676.33 points off the board.

The United States ranks 25th among nations of the world in maternity case mortality.

Freight Tieup Brings Thousands Of Appeals To Nation's Railroads

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(INS)—The nation's railroads are suffering today from a combined pain in the pocketbook and a ringing in the ears.

Albert R. Beatty, spokesman for the Association of American Railroads, said that the railroads "have taken a financial licking" on the coal strike and the subsequent cutbacks in mileage.

In addition, since Wednesday afternoon messengers have delivered "thousands and thousands of letters daily from frantic manufacturers and producers seeking exceptions to the embargo placed on rail freight shipments."

Telephone lines have been tied up almost continuously with great building sacks of mail have been delivered with discouraging regularity.

A toy manufacturer came up with the news that millions of little girls would have broken hearts if lumber could not be shipped to him immediately. He manufactures dolls.

A brewer wired urgently that his beer should be accepted for rail shipment because beer is food and food is eligible for freight space. His customers are still thirsty.

A printer of commencement invitations pleaded that he was confronted with the loss of some twelve million dollars if his invitations could not be distributed during the current week.

Many of the telegrams were from manufacturers who said that they would have to fire from 100 to 50,000 employees if they could not ship their goods.

Chewing gum companies and motion picture outfits petitioned for permission to distribute their products by rail freight.

A cap and gown manufacturer said one million college and high school graduates would have to attend their commencement exercises in multi if he could not send his caps and gowns humming over the rails.

A manufacturer complained bitterly that while he could move his bottles by rail, his bottle caps were ineligible for freight space and so he was stymied in his attempts to carry on business as usual.

Since about 75 per cent of the ordinary volume of freight was barred from shipment by the conditions of the embargo the materials contained in the wires, letters and phone calls was diversified and confusing.

At one time the telegraph company was unable to handle the wires to the railroad association and piled up a tremendous backlog in the telegraph office.

The majority of messages have received an answer, however, and the majority of answers were negative.

And the railroad owners wished they could hop a slow freight themselves to get away from it all.

Inspection Made Of Rural Routes

Postal Inspectors Go Over Rural Routes Of County Wednesday And Find Bad Boxes

Inspection of the rural routes of the county, an annual event, which was discontinued during the war, was made yesterday. Postmaster William R. Hanna states:

The inspection revealed a number of rural boxes did not conform to the specifications, which provide that a box must be placed on an upright post, 42 to 45 inches above the ground, and that the approaches to the box be kept clear and unobstructed for the convenience of the carrier. Many boxes were not of the regulation height, and in a great many cases, the support was found to be leaning.

AROUND CITY HALL

Judging from interest displayed the mass meeting to hear housing discussed at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday, will fill or overflow Courtroom 1, Lawrence county courthouse.

Elimination of turns at Mill and Washington streets during heavy traffic hours is benefitting travel at that point, observers report.

Buildings are being painted at Cascade Park and the park will present a much improved appearance this season. Parks Director Joseph D. Alexander reports.

Contractors are expected to start work possibly late this week on state highway continuations in the city. State street Mill, Liberty street and Taylor street projects may also get under way.

It is not known when examinations for police and firemen will be held. The civil service board arranges the date.

What People Say

WASHINGTON—John D. Small, civilian production administrator: "We have reached the junction where the coal mines should be seized. The government then should appeal to the miners to dig coal."

THE HAGUE—Winston Churchill: "I see no reason why under the guardianship of a world organization there should not arise ultimately a United States of Europe."

NANKING—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower: "We want China as a friend. Our theory is that we go out and help people help themselves. We have no ulterior motives."

WASHINGTON—Ferdinand Eberstadt, former chairman of the Army-Navy Munitions board, opposes merger of the armed forces. "It would seem safer, particularly in the present state of the world, to be sure of our ground before we act, rather than to merge in haste and study at leisure."

During 1945 the heartbeats of birds, many times more rapid than those of humans, were counted with a sensitive electrical instrument attached to the twig on which the bird perched, or even under the nest.

American Impressions Of An Australian Bride

Mrs. Shirley Clarke Zappia, young blonde Australian bride, who arrived in this country from Sydney, Australia, to join her husband, Bernard Zappia, of West Pittsburg, former storekeeper 2-C, U. S. Navy, is "thrilled" about America, neon lights, nylon hose and plastic shoes, and thinks that she will "like to live in this country," according to a recent interview.

Mrs. Zappia arrived at San Francisco, Calif., on April 25, with her 15-months old son, Johnny, on the U. S. Mariposa, a liner for war brides, which sailed from Australia on April 11, with 574 brides and many war babies.

Met at Dance Shirley was a former nurse's aide at the Crown Street Women's Maternity hospital in Sydney, Australia, and met Bernard at a dance held at a supply base in Sydney, in September 1943. They were married on May 22, 1944.

The young newcomer has her parents and two brothers in Australia, and is the fourth generation, her son, Johnny, being the fifth generation. Her great grandfather is living at the age of 105, and her great grandmother at the age of 103. All of her great grandparents and grandparents are living with the exception of her father's mother. Her parents were born in New Castle, Australia; coincidentally Shirley traveled over 8,000 miles, to New Castle, Pa., to make her future home with her American G. I.

Her husband, Bernard Zappia, was stationed in Sydney for two and a half years, and was in service for three years. He was discharged on February 5, 1946, at Shoemaker Calif., and now has assumed duties with the Re-La-On Products company, in Pittsburg.

Shirley has a slight intriguing accent, and thinks that she will like to live here in this country. When she arrived in San Francisco, the Red Cross conducted a tour of San Francisco, and the brides, including Shirley, were impressed with many things, including the thousands of neon lights, fancy shoes, especially plastic shoes. She saw nylon hose for the first time in her life when she managed to purchase a pair, (which is a feat in view of the fact that many American women have yet been unable to purchase a pair). So far she is not homesick, and is waiting patiently for this winter when she will see snow for the first time in her life. Little Johnny is already accustomed to his new home, having enjoyed the trip, which was an uneventful, pleasant trip, to America.

In speaking of this country, Shirley was greatly impressed with the fact that "almost everyone" owns an automobile, a thing unheard of in Australia, where only the wealthy can boast a car.

Upon her arrival the young bride was greeted by the immediate family and relatives at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Zappia, Tenth street, West Pittsburg. They have already moved into their newly furnished apartment at Eleventh street, West Pittsburg. In the short time of her arrival here, Mrs. Zappia has received many invitations to all types of receptions and entertainments, and in the meantime has been "very busy" in meeting the family, relatives, and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Zappia have another son, Nick Zappia, formerly of the U. S. Army Eleventh Airborne with the paratroopers stationed in Japan. He was discharged in January.

NATHAN MILSTEIN

is at the peak of his mastery and stands in the front row of the world's great violinists.

He has made eighteen tours of the United States and Canada, innumerable tours of Europe, three of South America, two in Mexico, and has toured Egypt and Palestine.

At the end of the current season, he will have appeared no less than thirty times as soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra alone.

There is no great Symphony Orchestra in this country or in Europe when Milstein has not appeared many times as an acclaimed soloist and hardly a city of importance in the United States which has not made him one of its favorites.

By Extension Representative LEWIS C. DAYTON, Agriculture, MISS MARY ELLEN MCCLAIN, Home Economics

Are you buying new washable for your wardrobe? If you are, then check labels and save yourself trouble and disappointment.

Colorfastness in washables is important. Make a special effort to see if ready-made garments and yard goods are labeled "colorfast to washing."

If the material or ready-made garment does not have a label, it might be well to test a sample for colorfastness. On a ready-made garment, a small piece may be cut from the seam, pocket, or the end of the belt may be used. Wash in clear lukewarm water to see if any of the color comes out.

When white or light spots on the yarn can be seen at regular spacings, the fabric was piece-dyed and it can be expected to fade. Dyeing should be done before the yarn is woven into cloth.

Another label to look for is the preshrinkage one which tells how much a garment or fabric will shrink. The label on preshrunk garments or materials usually states they will not shrink more than one or two per cent.
